About the Theme

STATE, RELIGION AND POLITICS

The changing nature and newly emerging Political trends in contemporary Indian politics are the major concern in this conference. One of fundamental issue that contemporary Indian Politics is how the Indian State should go with the problems related to Socio-Religious communities in India. Given the multiple facets and nature of communities and religious groups in India, this has been the severe challenge to address with deeper understanding of each and every socio-religious communities. Recently there are number of issues and problems emerging within the domain of religion and politics. The Indian State has the responsibility to address them with proper understanding. Some of them are ideological debates/battle over 'Nationalism' and 'Patriotism', Debates on 'Increasing Intolerance' and 'Saffonisation'. Increasing tendency of Sectarian, Ethnic and Caste Mobilization and also the Demand for separate status of Religion under the realm of identity politics. Issues related to Uniform civil code, Cow slaughtering, Muslim Personal Law and Triple Talaq. New form of Temple Entry movements by women and list goes on. With this backdrop the conference has few more sub themes for the discussion.
